Are We There Yet? / Are We There Yet?

Well, depends on what your destination is. For many individuals it has been a desire that humanity have a general awakening of what is real.

Reality, and its companion Truth, have been under direct attack as far back as I can remember. The argument that reality and truth are subjective has weaponized information in an attempt to distract us from what is actual/real. I share this line of reasoning because we have to define our terms to avoid the mental gymnastics of the confused and the truth trolls/bots/AIs that are in a continuous battle for our minds.

Public Opinion is the most powerful force in a truly Free-Market... so I am arguing that General Public Opinion is the most powerful force on this planet. So, paradigm shifts, zeitgeists, revelations and enlightenment seems to be closely associated with actual and radical changes in our physical world,... aka Revolution.

"It does not take a majority to prevail... but rather an irate, tireless minority, keen on setting brushfires of freedom in the minds of men." Samuel Adams

Efforts to bring about a One World Government has resulted in the creation of a One World r3VOLution. A LOV3olution doesn't seek confrontation. But we are challenged by a philosophy that believes, 'if you are not In Control then you are Out of Their Control and thus not 'doing your fair share to keep them living the life they have become accustomed to at your expense without the liberty protections promised in exchange. Not supporting beasts that are devouring your future is a revolutionary act in an atmosphere of coerced compliance and surveillance.

My hope is to be clear, so I'm taking a bit of space to define terms. 'Brushfires of Freedom' is a realization that individuals are capable of actually doing something.... 'I am free to build a home' means you are capable and are not physically restrained. 'I am at liberty to build a home' has been more associated with 'permission'. Being granted the liberty to do something isn't the same as being free to do the same thing. America combined the two sentiments in much of our founding documents in an attempt to make it clear that in America the government was created to protect the freedom of individuals by ensuring that the forces of government were created to ensure an environment of liberty where an individual's freedom was protected.

The Bill of Rights is full of such examples. You are at liberty to speak, worship, bear arms etc. in the exercising of your freedoms to do so without (in theory) worrying about various levels of government depriving you of your freedom to do so. So, I have come to understand that Liberty is more of a societal norm... "General Public Opinion" thing where Freedom is a capability that must be exercised or eventually you won't be 'at liberty' to do anything central planners don't approve of.

I share this preamble so that my intentions are clear. I believe we are at a very important juncture in the societal evolution of humanity. The American 'experiment' is still underway but we have enough evidence to evaluate America Inc's chances of ending up in the dust bin of history. What is not as clear is what is to become of the people and their freedoms that our democratically elected constitutional republic was promised to protect with Liberty and Justice.

With that out of the way I wish to examine the ever increasing freedoms we have as individuals to live a life as originally promised.

My wife Donna and I have desired a standard of living & a life of freedom that has only become technologically and affordably available in literally the last year or so. We decided to keep track of technology in 8 areas of interest. And not only has the technology caught up with our desires, so has the free-market demand for the solutions we have been advocating and experimenting with ourselves.

At www.PiratesWithoutBorders.com you can examine The Letters of Marque written by "Captain Marque" and his first mate "Reprisal" supplying some rhetoric for our method of freedom expression. At the top of the page you'll see clickable icons to several categories that highlight technologies that can empower individuals, their families and even small communities in the exercise of their freedoms. The simple goal of not being hungry, thirsty, cold, too hot, wet or isolated while living a comfortable life outside of liberty starved municipalities, has been very motivational.

My wife and my 4 children (now add 12 grandchildren) became aware of evil intentions back in 1988 and the only way I knew to live in liberty was to advocate it for everyone by openly demonstrating our freedoms... a'bunch o'times. Now my wife and I are preparing for the exercise of our freedoms in the creation of a self-sustaining home/life using the information, tools and relationships we have accumulated over the decades, and to be an inspiration to Generation Next.

It is now possible to combine the knowledge of the past with the technology of the present to Free ourselves and our posterity. I'll list the categories we thought most important to us along with some of the options available to be an inspiration and a starting point to increase your confidence to do more research.

The idea to "OccupyTheLand" is a new project years in the making but in its infancy as Donna and I have found the desert land we wish to live the rest of our lives crafting.

But first I wish to address something that has not been discussed in as much detail as I had anticipated, but has been constantly mentioned for over a decade. "Intentional Community".

I've done dozens of radio shows on the subject of Intentional Communities and I believe that an entire article would be required to even scratch the surface of what I would hope to share on the issue. In short, ideally, I require land with recognized borders of what is mine mine mine and Not anyone else's. I wish to live in a "Live and Let Live" environment where mine and other's Pursuits of Individual Happiness goes unmolested so long as those pursuits do not interfere with an other's. And I believe that from that comes a sense of Community and Cooperation. Please write me at Publisher@FreedomsPhoenix.com if you wish to have your questions and comments on this subject addressed in a future article.

www.PirateBox.info can help you secure data now if you are interested in a personal option and need some help understanding what's available from the liberty community.

Entire web replacements are also available and where we are going with our communications as we transition to 'Above The Grid'. Qortal is a WorldWideWeb replacement for the Privacy/PublicSEE communications. I am impressed with Qortal at this early stage. Bastyon is a Twitter/Facebook type Social Media replacement that does not link to your identity via phone number or email and we are working with them at development levels as well.

The desire for these types of communications has been around for decades, but only in the last few years/months has the technology and the education of those capable of such marvels been demonstrated. The crypto revolution needed about 10 years for young talent to be capable at crafting such empowering tech.

2. Energy

Energy independence turns the gears of the visionary's imagination and grants us individual control of our modern lives. No meaningful alternative to the Crown's system can be achieved without exploring decentralized energy production and storage.

Turning shafts to generate electricity can be accomplished many ways. Human/animal powered generators are far less preferable than hydro or wind power used to turn shafts. The power of steam used to turn turbine/shafts requires the burning of fuels except in the case of Nuclear reactors. And then there is always the promise of Fusion reactors. Solar is far more decentralized but has its limitations due to the amount of sunlight available. Solar is unique in that photons are directly converted into electrons for immediate use or storage. Ahhhh, storage.

Twenty years ago I priced out a system that would allow for a continuation of the standard of living that I had become accustomed to that would cost about $60,000-$90,000. That same capability now with much longer lasting batteries and easy plug and play components is less than $20,000 and as little as half that if you are willing to build your system yourself with off the shelf components and a few hours of video watching.

3. Food & Water

The privateers of the Crown have turned our food and water into subtle poisons, making us vulnerable in mind and body. Therefore, it is essential to cultivate our own heirloom nutrition and our own healthful water.

Soon, I think it'll be 'that Food Thing' on everyone's lips and minds. And even a few short years ago the vast majority of American's experience growing anything was in third grade at about 8 years old watching a tomato plant sprout and die in an empty half pint milk carton at their mandatory youth indoctrination camp.

Broadband communications now allows for the sharing of educational videos made by those that know with those that possess the desire to know how to feed themselves, their family and their communities. Donna and I have contributed to this education and have greatly benefited as well. We have raised goats, had up to 70 chickens producing 2-3 dozen eggs a day, created the AquaDome that ran for years using Aquaponics with a concrete fishpond made from a backyard water feature, and harvested Turkeys for Thanksgiving as an educational experience. Our 2-acre property in Northwest Phoenix, Az was a freedom hub of learning and activism for well over a decade when we were there and that education has given us the confidence to believe that we can sustain ourselves with abundance on 20 acres 70 miles further west. You add water and everything grows at some time of the year here in the Sonoran Desert. Our home had 6 inches deep of irrigation every 2 weeks and produced 70 - 80 foot pine trees, several citrus, pomegranate, fig and apricots. What many do not know is that Arizona is number 2 or 3 in citrus production, #1 in Cotton and during much of the year #1 in lettuce.... In the desert parts of the state. But you better figure out that water thing.

4. Shelter

Flourishing in our new autonomy requires that we construct secure habitats in which to dwell. Cutting edge materials and methods provide unimaginable new options, allowing us greater mobility, and access to many previously uninhabitable environments.

1. Communication

Liberation requires collaboration between free thinkers without infringement or censorship. In another age, we could meet in public spaces. Today avoiding the Crown's surveillance requires we exchange encrypted communication. But while privacy is an important trait of commerce, research, simple curiosity and intimacy, I am very concerned about PublicSEE.

The ability to openly share information has "The Crown" worried and motivated to maintain control of The Narrative.

Satellite broadband communications has opened up the wilderness, but it will soon be obvious that the next step will include decentralized and distributed mesh networks (with and/or without satellites) to shield us from centralized solutions. With search terms like LoRa (LongRange and low power) communications you'll discover a world where 25mW of power can send a signal over 400 miles.

IPFS data storage and retrieval (InterPlanetaryFileSystem) has been used by me and others for a few years now that allows for the uncensorable data storage of video and all forms of 1's and 0's that can be accessed by our readers and radio audience. I intentionally do not use Big Tech for distribution of our content in preparation for the day when we can't,... which has already happened. And if Content Providers think it is bad now, just wait until a world war breaks out or we get deeper into the next election cycle, or an economic crash becomes even more obvious.

Just a few short years... months ago, much of the Earth was too difficult/expensive to inhabit due to a lack of Energy and, for many, the lack of dependable and high-speed Communications. With quality solutions for Communication, Energy, Food and Water requirements we are now able to consider Shelter options best suited to our tastes, resources and climate. My wife Donna and I are deep into this research and experimentation in the Sonoran Desert of central Arizona and are beginning to share our experiences and revelations. We are constantly evaluating suggestions, but are far more interested in other's direct experiences in site selection, methods of taking ownership, permission slip mentalities, zoning, building methods, costs, materials and integration with site infrastructure just to name a few items of interest. Much less credible (but not worthless) are other's desire to have us experiment on unproven ideas that they themselves have no experience with.

It is our desire to gain direct experience with proven (to us by our own hands) results that are regularly shared with others with the same goals. It is this stage of living Above The Grid that we are encouraging participation at www.OccupyTheLand.org (stay tuned for the launch by the Ides of March)

5. Health

The Crown has conspired with the medical industry to ensnare us in a web of control and dependency. To avoid their notions and potions it is essential to take responsibility for our own health, and pursue sound medical science.

Let your Food be your Medicine and your Medicine be your Food,... oh, and get off your butt and build something useful (exercise) and many of your health issues will be solved. Donna and I are very excited to OccupyTheLand after almost 3 years of <http://lovebuslibertytour.com/> living (a bit too comfortable really).

6. Transportation

The Crown has claimed regulatory control of every means of conveyance, stifling the free travel of individuals and their property. This is an intolerable act. Superior transportation technologies already exist but are suppressed by regulations.

For years I would complain on air about my generation being promised flying cars by now. Soon the audience would start flooding me with every version of VTOL (VerticalTakeOffLanding) vehicle available and being developed. The answer to the question of remote living with rapid access to goods and services at commerce hubs has "Yes" as an answer... it's just how much are you willing to spend? Of course, the cost will fall as time passes. One of the properties we were considering near our primary selection had the farm road in front designated as a runway for private aircraft. So, I guess some may consider the building of hangers.

7. Automation

Humanity's labor has been greatly expanded by the use of machines. We must maintain decentralized automation for the future use of labor saving and humanity serving tools, or we will be victims of the Crown's automatons.

Jarvis!... Not Alexa!

What I'm referencing when I say Jarvis not Alexa is the idea that I have no problem with push button or sensor driven automation, but I will not outsource such information to Big Tech, or even off my property. Marvel's Tony Stark had Jarvis as his personal AI while millions have Alexa constantly scanning every sight and utterance In Their Home. Oh, Hell No!

Our 2-acre irrigated lot in NW Phoenix was a great experience for our young grandchildren and we have a whole new wave of young ones ready to benefit from the dopamine hits they get from collecting eggs and getting food that they helped raise from the garden for the dinner table, instead of Big Tech pumping their brains with screen dope. Our neighbors had horses and cows and sheep and goats and chickens and.. and.. and that created lots of work. Our small efforts were augmented by grandchildren eager to help and learn, but I'm all about automating many of the important but time draining jobs that is much better suited to a camera or a sensor that prompts a step motor or actuator to perform a simple task that doesn't require my constant attention.

I greatly benefit when my generator automatically starts should my solar not keep up with battery charging or the Chicken's water is filled while we are visiting family in the city or the garden is watered while camping with friends at various festivals or our security system alerts me over my private VPN'd tunneled server that some intruder needs photographing and yelled at from my "goes to Eleven" speakers. Tech must be my servant and not my master... or The Man's snitch.

8. Education

Living in the information age has not insulated us from misinformation. When the Crown controls education it controls the very lens through which we see the world. To see the world as it is requires us to re-evaluate how we educate ourselves, and others.

We pulled our 4 children out of government schools when our oldest was in 3rd grade. Didn't even study the limited options available to us in the mid 90's when we made the best decision for our family we ever made. Another article on this subject alone is warranted but the bottom line is that 'government education' is so toxic that almost anything else under the supervision of a loving parent is far superior. Add to their education the ability to read, do arithmetic, write, grow food, take care of animals, personal hygiene, show empathy for their family, friends and pets and build their own homes and you will have produced a great big add to humanity and another bright future for another young family.

Real News? Real Life?

The sources by which we acquire knowledge must be vetted with as much scrutiny as the evaluation of the information itself. If at any time we allow ourselves to become lazy and negligent in our investigation of Truth we will become slaves to the self-appointed truthkeepers and gatekeepers of knowledge. The information monopolies that exist today are as ephemeral as their constructed narratives. They are only powerful so long as they receive the attention and observances of large portions of the population. The moment we recognize that "real news" cannot exist where these monopolists have control, we can begin the process of removing our attention and energy from their soul-sucking programs.

In the effort to discover unmolested information, distributed by those who honor Truth more than individualistic and self-serving agendas, one must undergo a tedious process of trail and error. If only there was a simple and trustworthy source that could bear the trust of the people. Instead, it comes down to the vigilance of the individual. It is up to you to stay investigative, vigorous, and unyielding in your demand for Truth in the content that you allow to become part of your worldview.

*The average person is extremely susceptible to suggestion. In the movie They Live, the characters must don special sunglasses to be able to see through the illusion that has stripped them of their critical thinking, clear observation and perception. In reality, the illusion most are confronted by is simply their own willful ignorance. Take the time to meditate and contemplate the deeper motives for all that exists in your environment and you will undoubtedly begin to see the subconscious manipulations that have been placed all around you to suggest and incentivise your subservience to the ultimate beneficiaries of your voluntary surrender of your sovereignty.*

The largest market in the world is Attention. Where people put their attention correlates directly to what direction humanity takes going into the future. The mainstream news was never truthful, unbiased, or independent as the regulation of information has been a priority of governments and monopolists and other oppressive entities throughout history. As mainstream news loses more and more market share of attention... alternative, localized, independent, and unique news channels are taking its place. While mainstream newspapers are losing money and readers, independent newspaper readership is on the rise. More people are reading independent newspapers than mainstream newspapers. We endeavor to utilize newspaper production to satisfy the average Americans need for real, uncensored, straightforward, fact based, cited, and authentic news.

Community Building in the MODERN WORLD

by Joanna Whitney

It is a lot harder than it used to be to build community. The last time I tried to do this was in 2009 after the stock market crash – when we were all out of work and there was no work in sight. There was slow food in Denver. There was a huge farmer's market on Santa Fe Drive and 9th Ave. There were classes and schools and the beginning stages of worker-cooperatives. There was High Plains Food Co-op and Grow-Haus just getting started. Rocky Mountain Employee Ownership Center, Mo'Betta Green and Mike Calicrate talking about growing food – all together – Occupy Wall Street – and the Occupy Movement – buzzing.

And then – the pot-laws past in 2013 and money started flowing into Denver and all those community efforts ceased. Over the following 10 years, obviously things leveled out financially and we were living high on the hog. For some of us who were researching there was a feeling of impending doom but there was no way to organize because there was nothing to organize against – and we were fat and happy for a long while here in Colorado...waiting for the other shoe to drop but basically out for ourselves and this was fueled by the internet and the federal reserve scam, which inherently creates competition and scarcity mindset based fear which promotes extreme self-centeredness.

It is all by design - a combination of the Prussian Education system, planned obsolescence, throw-away society, corruption – resulting in us becoming confused and apathetic through our parenting, bad food growing up, the military fall-out, mundane jobs, outsourcing our industry to China, schooling, smart phones, 5G, tell-lie-vision programming, the internet, incrementally addicting our dopamine receptors with click-bait and a need for instant gratification, the chemtrail spraying and the fake food and the pharmaceuticals, the house-hold chemicals – down to the Dawn dish-washing liquid (how does that shit really work?), the energy drinks and even the lab-intensified cannabis – we are not the same as we used to be. We seriously do not have common sense – on the whole.

The latest scare tactics and the trauma of losing our families, our friends, and our jobs, our livelihoods, the world as we knew it, from the plandemic, has pressured us toward the satanic messaging that is being put forth – do unto others before they do unto you. Nature is out to get you. Kill or be killed. Self-Preservation, Moral Relativism, Social Darwinism, Eugenics...

Things which used to work to bring people together, like pot-lucks, (free food) don't work as well anymore because people expect to be served now – the expect loyalty to a fault – good will is not appreciated – it is taken for granted. People who go the extra mile for their fellow “man” are taken advantage of rather than met with gratitude. In addition, we have trouble thinking critically and having forethought, and we are on the negative.

I am attempting to introduce barter currency – utilizing the Ithaca Hours Model – by Paul Glover, which by the way, Hometown Money is available to be downloaded at libgen.is – and Paul Glover, himself is in an assisted living in Philadelphia – almost gone and almost forgotten after creating an incredibly successful 30 year run of barter currency in Ithaca, NY from 1991, to the present. The book lays it out step-by-step, how to do it, but the community is so mesmerized by fake green paper and the lie of the interest scam, that they can't “understand” it. They stare at me with glassy eyes as I try to explain that a 1-hour bill is the equivalent of $20 – as in minimum wage – our HOURS currency is backed by our labor – it seems to go over their heads. A 2-hour bill is the equivalent of $40. A half-hour bill is the equivalent of $10. A quarter-hour bill is the equivalent of $5 and a twentieth hour is $1.

Price your wares in HOURS instead of USD and then we can barter using paper currency – anonymously – just like “cash” and you don't have to practice 1:1 Barter. We won't be tracked – we can create a parallel system without having to physically move. If they come in with CBDC's – we will be ok if we are bartering with each other – we will create a growing black market for ourselves.

Wayne Walton introduced Mountain Hours to Breckenridge, CO in 2012 and it went over like butter, but he was only able to stay in town for 3 more years before having to go back to Florida, so it died – because it has to be continuously promoted – because it is not “money” to be saved - it is money to be spent – because it creates community and trade – goods and services – now being introduced to the Front Range.

We have a small steering committee of 4 people who agreed to do it – HTTPS://FRONTRANGE-HOURS.ORG – and we have the design for the buck and a market scheduled at Vali Soul Sanctuary in Boulder, CO for March, but people are still traumatized, and we definitely need a simultaneous healing symposium – of different types of therapies so that we can overcome our grief and fear together to create Unity.

This community building not only has to offer a path for the future but we also have to use what we know to heal our immediate past. I have read a book called PRACTICALLY SHAMELESS, BY ALYCE BARRY – COPYRIGHT 2008 – HTTPS://SHADOWWORK.COM/PRACTICALLY-SHAMELESS/ which shows a technique of Psycho-drama that I would like to put forth to the community to try out. Amazingly – this book was published in Longmont, CO and Cliff Barry, the originator, lives in Boulder, CO, but it seems to have succumbed to the plandemic – in which it's all online. This is something else I am observing – in our sloth-infested culture – convenience over quality rules. The book, however, shows you how to do the work itself – and I think it would be great to begin doing some acting out of what happened to each of us, using this book as a model. In acting it out, we would be able to experience all sides together – the jabbed and the purebloods – as ourselves, as them, as observers – and that could be very healing.

So, simultaneously to doing the barter market, I am also going to be working on doing some free healing workshops for people in the community, using this method, and art process, which I will attempt to facilitate with others. Of course, if any of the amazing therapists in our group step forward, I will hand the baton over to them, as long as they are willing to work for free, otherwise I will continue to do it.

The shadow side of the “my freedom movement” reveals itself on social media with constant barrage of negative news and people name calling and picking on each other, and when we get together we are on best behavior. This is what shows me that we have healing work to do to get where we want to go together.

And why do I call it the “my freedom movement”? Because most people want their freedom and are not willing to sacrifice much. It's all about me and not about us. People misunderstanding “anarchy” as no rules, rather than NO RULERS. People believing that we should all be able to do whatever we want to do whenever we want to do it and this is ingrained now.

As Rainbow Gatherers – some of you know that it is necessary to use Formal Consensus to make decisions to have Freedom rather than hierarchy. I have been going through the Formal Consensus book on my YouTube channel for 50 videos – and yet – perhaps our barter currency group is the first one that is open and willing to accept that as our decision making process at least down the road – they are willing to accept the principles of Formal Consensus as a base-line for how we treat each other. Every other group I have been in up till this point are in too much of a hurry to have a Constitution and a set of principles to fall back on when things get rough between us. They think that because we all want “freedom” then we are all of like-mind. They do not realize that we are littered with narcissists, benevolent dictators and statist trolls trying to break us up at every turn.

Formal Consensus takes too much time for the narcissistic psychopaths and government spies – they will get run off after the first level. Formal Consensus is basically the Trivium in a group decision-making format. Input – is where you gather all the information, Processing – level 2 – the Creative Interplay of ideas – Output – answering the concerns, one at a time. This builds unity, trust, patience, respect, self-empowerment, conflict-resolution, nonviolence – all the principles required for Consensus... and resulting in a unified community – which no order-followers can bombard. But so far, we have not matured enough or been pressed enough to want to try it.

We are 2.5 years into this “freedom movement” community – and I have faith that we will get there. Leading by example seems to be the best way, as well as relentlessly showing up, keeping a positive attitude and trying to be of service while also fending off the narcissists... it is a fascinating time.

The age of “go with the flow” seems to have passed- now we are in the white water, where we have to keep the craft from hitting the rocks and carry our precious cargo to our destination – wherever and whenever we find it.

THE TUTTLE TWINS is a fantastic example of what we should all be doing to enhance the quality and availability of information our children receive. Rather than sending children to indoctrination camps where they can be forced to learn conformity to rules enforced by false authorities, dehumanized, drugged for being energetic and lively, and exposed to sexual deviancies, why not instead allow them to be children, innocent and free, while providing education through mentorship, by allowing personal discovery and exploration, and through books that provide them the tools to succeed in life. The Tuttle Twins books are great tools for children to work through at their own pace. They can discover what schools don't teach, such as civics, what the Federal Reserve really is, and what results have come historically from the collectivization of societies through government force. There is so much more to these books, but don't forget that you are the key ingredient in the learning that your child will undergo. You are the gatekeeper of knowledge for your child. Will you surrender that right, or claim it as a natural duty to your progeny and the advancement of our species?

The Free Republic of P.A.Z.NIA & VonuFest

Building the Parallel Society

Being a part of the servile society was untenable long before 2020, but at that point, the coercion, deception, and outright violence became blatantly evident for all to see.

It also made clear to many that if "we" wish to live our principles (i.e., anti-coercion, voluntarism, peace, Truth), separation is a necessity, and actual building in physical space and time.

Building community, trade, and more.

But with that separation comes challenges: namely, imagine everything that building a society entails.

- Infrastructure (communications, off-grid energy, etc.)
- Food (self-sufficient, over-producing homesteads, guerrilla gardens, knowledge on production, foraging, etc.)
- Money (bitcoin, monero, barter, silver, etc.)
- Health & Wellness (AquaCure/Brown's Gas Generators, medicinal mushrooms, homeopathies, spagyrics, etc.)
- Transportation (with a mapped network, we can have our own logistics & transport network – see below & JOIN!)
- Culture (empowering music, art, literature, entertainment, etc.)
- Welfare & Charity (P.A.Z.NIA General Bitcoin Fund)
- And likely more, but you get the point

After this realization, in mid-2020, I declared my independence from the USSA and made my homestead the Veritas node of The Free Republic of P.A.Z.NIA.

In brief, to use concepts familiar to many, P.A.Z.NIA is a vetted, parallel network, a type of worldwide cooperative. "We" aren't trying to overthrow any governments, take anyone's First Realm welfare check, or anything like that.

"We" are building the world we wish to see in existence, despite the monstrosity of coercion that has seemingly enveloped "us" all. "We" just want to be left alone.

Further, P.A.Z.NIA is only open & available to vetted individuals; that is, me or someone in the network must vouch for you, or you have to build your reputation sufficiently, maybe by joining the P.A.Z.NIA Committee of Correspondence on Telegram...

In other words, "known" (yet likely still pseudonymous) individuals who have foresworn the use of coercion.

While sometimes inconvenient, this sort of approach makes the hard task of adjudication/arbitration less necessary, as we further build the community and overarching network. That said, "our" so-called "freedom community" isn't really that big – it's usually really easy to get vetted.

In accordance with the list above, we have corresponding departments actively working on solutions (i.e., The P.A.Z.NIA Department of Transportation). See VonuFest4 below for more.

VONUFE4: BUILDING THE PARALLEL SOCIETY

September 25-October 2 @ Veritas, P.A.Z.NIA (90 miles EAST of St. Louis)

After declaring my independence and creating #TheFreeRepublic, I decided to host a freedom festival here at the homestead:

VonuFest.

[Vonu is a freedom strategy founded in the 1960's by a pseudonymous individual named Rayo, the goal of a self-liberator being to become as invulnerable to the coercion of both public coercers (governments) & private coercers (private violators of person & property) as humanly possible. This is done by way of radical lifestyle changes. For much, much more, check out The Vonu Podcast, VONUPODCAST.COM.]

My idea was to not promote it at all, and only invite vetted, trusted individuals, whom I had known for multiple years. Crazy enough, 30-something freedom pioneers came out and made The Founder's Event a great success.

I gave a speech, we signed the P.A.Z.NIA Declaration of Independence & Constitution...it was a real spectacle of an event.

Further, unlike many freedom festivals, self-liberation is a core part of the gathering. For example, at VonuFest1, we assembled a 3D printer; processed some lambs; planted some garlic, and more.

And in this P.A.Z.NIA Year 3 (2023), VonuFest4 is looking to be the best one yet, despite it still being ~6+ months out. We've been busy.

Potential opportunities include:

*The P.A.Z.NIA Department of Health & Wellness

- 1) Try the AquaCure and learn all about Brown's Gas & molecular hydrogen, and all of the amazing health balancing benefits it provides
- 2) Time with a real Rife Machine, Tibetan sound bowls, and education on restoring balance using frequency
- 3) Time with Wellness Coordinator Rayo2, with hopeful & often unknown insights on ways to restore balance in the body
- 4) Foraging in Our Nature Sanctuary, Our Church of Self-Liberation – mushroom varieties often found are oyster mushrooms, turkey tail, hen of the woods, & lion's mane; nettle & mullein are abundant as well

*The P.A.Z.NIA Department of Energy

- 1) Learn all about the fuel saving & energy potentials of Brown's Gas/on-demand hydrogen
- 2) Check out a real magnetic motor and learn about using the earth's magnetic field as a potential perpetual motion device
- 3) Crystal power cells – learn how to build easily crafted power cells, capable of powering small devices for years at a time without a charge (how much depends on the specific build)
- 4) Electroculture: learn how to use the energy abundant around us to hyper-charge production and quality in your gardens & permaculture farms

*P.A.Z.NIA Bitcoin Department

- 1) Learn about solutions for bitcoin privacy (i.e., Whirlpool, Sparrow Wallet, lightning network, behavior, etc.)
- 2) Get the scoop on the P.A.Z.NIA General Bitcoin Fund, our mutual aid fund setup for P.A.Z.NIANS

*P.A.Z.NIA Department of Technology

1) Learn about GhostPhones and GhostPads used by many self-liberators, as well as other privacy-enhancing hardware & software available (LibertyUnderAttack.com/PrivacyTools)

2) Join discussions about building our own Internet, utilizing many different free and open-source protocols

And much, much more.

Building community has never been more important, and further, actual solutions in bringing about our own parallel society, our own parallel network, founded upon the principles of voluntarism.

And if you're more an individualist vonuan like our posthumous mentor, Rayo, you can still come out and acquire some tough-to-find knowledge.

There is no monetary cost to attend, but again, you must be vetted by someone in the P.A.Z.NIA Network.

Email COORDINATOR@PAZNIA.COM for assistance or more information, and follow the website, PAZNIA.com, to stay up to date.

The Second Realm is already being built, and I'm quite pleased with its development...but its success is only enhanced by the recruitment of fellow, dedicated freedom pioneers.

Consider joining us in our efforts:

*Have a homestead, land, parking spot, camp site, RV hookup, etc. you'd like to make available to like-minded, vetted self-liberators? > PAZNIA.COM/JOIN

*Are you a nomad or otherwise traveling vonuan, looking to gain access to the P.A.Z.NIA, Second Realm Network? > PAZNIA.COM/JOIN2

Fill out the relevant form(s), learn about P.A.Z.NIA & VonuFest4, and hopefully, soon, we'll see you in the free society.

In conclusion, I'll leave you with the words of Smuggler & XYZ in Second Realm: Book on Strategy:

We are tribes of mind and soul, not defined by nation or race but by thought and substance. We are everywhere – and we are here to stay.

Social Clubs and Organizing for Freedom

Over the last dozen years, I have seen people come together over and over again to design the perfect organizational model for post plutocratic/monopolistic/authoritarian society. I've watched as people theorized the same basic principles into similar visual models at least 50 times. This model that they are all looking to fund, manufacture and replicate is built upon a social maturity that I haven't seen exist yet in my decades upon this planet. It always requires that those involved maintain high self-discipline, motivation, and come already skilled in some fashion. The fact of the matter is that even within the groups that are forming these models, these qualities are not often present.

If one is attempting to form a model by which a society can function optimally, one must account for the origins of the people who mean to participate. Futuristic models like that which I see everywhere these days are not suited to manage the population as it is. They are suited for the ideal population of the future.

After years of observing and participating in communities, experimental social models, and various types of temporary gatherings I had an epiphany. The model by which we can advance our cause for Liberty and Truth, live outside of the domain of the authoritarian mainstream society, and actually produce abundance was already existent and was used very regularly. The answer was Social Clubs.

Social Clubs, 501(c)7's, are built to provide for the very things that people are looking for today.

Those who are seeking something better. Privacy, exclusivity, community, abundance, cooperation in business, self-determination of social design and protections from government interference. It is for these reasons that motorcycle clubs designed their organizations around this. While they might have been flawed, some originally, some over time, many through invasion by government agents who manipulated and coerced them into ever further criminality, the design of the clubs was functional because it was rooted in the Social Club.

A Social Club that is not running meth across the country, shooting people in gang wars, or provoking the government in whatever other ways, is one that has a real chance of success. It is the same or similar organizational model in use by the Elk Lodge, the Moose Lodge, the Lions, the Masonic Lodge, Motorcycle Clubs, and so many other successful organizations. It is very similar to fraternal organizations. These types of clubs are seemingly from a different generation, but the new generations need not build an entirely different organizational structure, but rather alter the way we operate the structure. It's not a firearm that's deadly, it's the human being who's wielding it. It's not the Social Club that's broken, it's the participants who've built it to be destructive to humanity, such as the Masonic Lodge. Instead of satanic megalomaniacs, we have high intentioned, motivated, and creative people who can choose to collaborate for something far more powerful than authority over others. We can choose to humbly serve each other.

The combination of property and people is the key element of the success of a social club. From there we have the ripples out into collaborative, decentralized community. There is no limit to what can be achieved by a highly organized group of people who've humbly pooled resources, talents, and understand how they best fit into a society with each other. Like MLK said, "Those who love peace must learn to organize as effectively as those who love war."

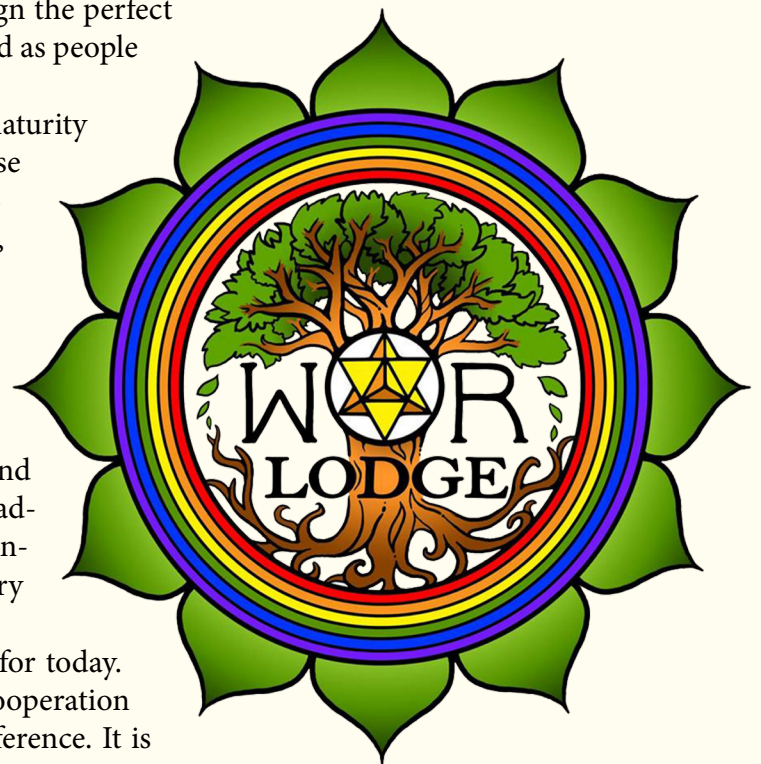

If we make an in-depth study of history, we see a cyclical calendar of events that can show us the way to defend against oppressors, to motivate, inspire and inform indoctrinated populations, and to form associations that bypass authoritarian governments. In recent history, we can see how the workers unions of the late 19th century and first half of the 20th century worked through the manufactured divisions between themselves and finally came together. When they did, they were able to bring the system to its knees through non-violent direct action. This sort of response was exactly what was needed at the time.

It is paramount to recognize that the specific ways in which we confront tyranny will differ from the past, but the general systems approach is always the same. We must ask simple and obvious questions to arrive at simple answers. Once we have come to commonality regarding our goals, we can form our Tactics and our Strategies. The Strategy is the overarching plan. The Tactics are the methods that we employ to achieve that plan.

Through my years, I came to a simple conclusion. Strategically, many of the organizations that I saw being theorized, planned for, and mapped out, were based on future possibilities. I wanted to form a Strategy that could be employed immediately. Social Clubs have all the components readily available to organize people who are prepared to live in an "alternative" way, to support their cooperation to build financial, and social abundance, and to prevent the invasion of their privacy. Most importantly, it is a Trojan Horse in that it does not directly confront the oppressive government. It actually removes itself in many ways from the sight of that entity. Social Clubs are protected by laws against encroachment. So while many times I have heard of one or other structures of human organization, I haven't found one that comes even close to comparing with the ease of transition, the potential for success, the protection from tyrants, and the structural integrity that is provided for by Social Clubs.

What I found when I designed my first Social Club, The Warriors Of the Rainbow Lodge, was that people were not interested in what they firstly did not understand, and secondly what they had to actually work and sacrifice for. There was still the need for the union between those with resources and those with skills and labor. I worked very hard to motivate those who had volunteered themselves to build this organization. The problem was and is that those with skills want to be paid. Those without skills are always more willing to attempt grandiose ventures. If I had started with $10 million I may have been able to maintain this crew with financial incentives for several years. I could have purchased several properties by which we could have recruited members who would support the organization in numerous ways because we could offer them a sanctuary. So many things would've been possible. But that was not the way it went.

I started with some thousands. I needed to recruit people who had properties, at the same time as recruiting those who wanted to become members. The lack of resources at the start was a fundamentally inhibiting factor. Of the people I sought investment, there was little to no interest, and the crew, not being skilled in the ways we needed, not motivated to the extent that would carry them through the difficulties ahead, fell apart.

My efforts in creating the Social Club failed. We had at various moments anywhere between 5 and 50 members and 1-5 properties. We were unable to maintain the necessary structure for a Social Club to function, recruit membership, and incentivize property owners to be clubhouses. I discovered, to my great sadness, that to do something as bold as I was attempting required that I have the funding to support it offhand. I was suggesting that we actualize the thing that everybody wanted, but few were willing to give what was necessary to produce. A global system for living separate from the system, while not overtly fighting it, and having to live cooperatively with others long term. My outlook grew dim.

Many of the arguments that I was confronted with were opposition to hierarchical systems, the lack of trustworthiness of “strangers”, the impediments that were faced by motorcycle gangs that utilized the Social Club model, and the fact that we would still be involved in “the system.”

No matter what I did I could not convince the majority of others of my conviction that we had the key to our freedom at hand. I was in the same boat that every other similar organization I’d seen before was confronted with. It seemed to me that without the seed money to fund the endeavor, people were unwilling to venture forth from their comforts and biases.

In the years that followed my last efforts to create this Social Club I’ve only seen more of the same. Organizations that present as solutions with social designs. They never seem to get off the ground. They never seem to develop into something more than a social “network.”

My vision of the solution to our potentiated and likely transhuman future is to organize into tightly knit, decentralized units. To learn to live harmoniously and naturally with the earth yet again, and to redefine what is important in life. I still see the solution in Social Clubs, and I still await the moment when others realize the potential in this form of organization.

Some of the features that make a Social Club functional are monthly dues, regular social events, community enhancing projects, and clubhouses. Each of these features are important to the success of a Club. Monthly dues ensure income and investment for the Club to operate. Social events bring members together to encourage connection and deeper involvement with others, as well as providing educational opportunities. Community projects are the way the Club brings abundance and support to those in the wider community, and helps those who might be in need. Clubhouses provide temporary housing, safety, recreation, and space for connection and learning.

Members pay a monthly due which pays for the Clubhouses. Clubhouses provide a hub for members to coordinate activities, such as community events, charitable runs, and gatherings. The members of the Club are organized by level of involvement, rather than by abstract hierarchies. This means that the most invested in the Clubs success are more empowered to manage the Club. This investment may be financial support but leans more in favor of who gives the most energy in any form to the Club. This could mean that a caretaker of a Clubhouse is the most empowered, or that an event manager is the most empowered.

While there is a universal organizational body, the most empowered body in the Club is at the Local level. Each Clubhouse is its own organization, with leadership and designs of its own. It manages the vast majority of its own affairs, and reports to itself. This decentralized model is the very thing that makes the Club indestructible. It means that the organization as a whole is left to deal with matters that pertain to the creation of new chapters and in mediating differences between existing chapters.

Members can make Chapters in the areas they live in and can set up Clubs regardless of proximity of other Clubs. Existing Businesses and Residences can be affiliates or partners with the Club and can support members with discounts at their businesses, places of rest and gathering, and in other ways. The structure of this Social Club is such that individuals are empowered to the greatest extent and served by the organization rather than ruled like a government or like other authoritarian social organizations. I have seen countless people claim that their project or organizations is ruled by the people while they actually maintain subtle control over what happens. By utilizing a structure that is clear and open source, like the clubs bylaws, this kind of delusionary no-hierarchy social construction is avoided permanently.

I foresee a movement built on a Social Club, in which all the desired results of those who Love Freedom and want to see a better world can collaborate to produce it, without the need for violence, for isolation in the attempt, and with the greatest chance of success.

We can avoid transhumanism. We can avoid tyranny. We can work to provide a better world for our children. The Great Reset is the dream of psychopaths and those who have lost their humanity. It is the dream of the sick and depraved. We must do all we can to prevent this outcome. We must organize. We must stand firm. We must remember that all the power in this world comes from the individual who either allows it to be in the hands of others or takes responsibility for his life and works for the sake of not only himself, but for his community, his environment, and everything he leaves behind when he no longer walks this earth. What will you leave behind?

Igitur qui desiderat pacem, praeparet bellum.”

Publius Flavius Vegetius Renatus

...and if you want to win a war against a dominant opponent, prepare the correct Strategy and Tactics to unsettle and counteract his dominance. Work where he is weak. Be where he is not. Fight only when victory is assured. Lessons of history must not be ignored. They must be learned, contemplated, and given credence in the conversations of the revolutionaries.

New Hampshire's Free State Project – How Freeing a Single State from “Government” Could Free Us All

By Etienne de la Boetie2

Libertarians are organizing all over the world in various efforts to secure an area with political sovereignty to implement societies free from the control system of “government.” The largest and most exciting in my mind is the FREE STATE PROJECT, which has organized over 24,000+ activists who have pledged to move to New Hampshire and campaign actively for its political independence. The group has already moved and organized over 6,200+ in the state, with more arriving every week and has spent over a decade successfully rolling back laws, getting libertarians elected to office, and building the political and social networks needed for societal change. I believe if we free New Hampshire, then we, ultimately, can win everywhere.

The Free State Project started in 2001 when a political science student, Jason Sorens, then a Ph.D. student at Yale, published an article highlighting the failure of libertarians to elect any candidate to federal office and outlining his ideas for a secessionist movement, calling people to respond to him with interest. That response led to organization on the Internet, and the Free State Project was born without a specific state in mind.

101 REASONS LIBERTY LIVES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

The initial participants began a systematic review of the easiest US state with a sub-1.5 million population to determine which state would be the easiest to take over. Participants analyzed such variables as population, spending by political parties, the make-up of the legislature, and the percentage of libertarians in the state. Hawaii and Rhode Island were eliminated for their political propensity to centralized government, and a “bake-off” was held in September of 2003 between Alaska, Delaware, Idaho, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming. New Hampshire edged out Wyoming (57% vs. 43%) in the final vote.

Members of the Free State Project signed a “Statement of Intent” promising to move within five years to whichever state was chosen when the total population of the group hit 20,000, a number that had been calculated as what was needed for a committed group of activists to significantly influence a small state with a sub-1.5 million population.

Once New Hampshire was chosen in 2003, FSP members began moving to the State immediately. These were called “Early Movers,” and they began having an impact almost immediately. The group hit 20,000 “signers” in February of 2016, triggering “The Move,” however, there were all kinds of “outs” in agreement. Some signers wouldn’t move because they didn’t like New Hampshire, some signers got married, some signers divorced, and many had passed away.

Flash forward to today. The FSP now has 6230+ members “on the ground” in New Hampshire, with new members arriving every single week. The actual number is likely higher because not every member has notified the organization’s office that they have made the move, and many simply don’t want to be on a list when we have an organized crime “government” targeting pre-freedom individuals and organizations. The organization runs an extremely active JOBS BOARD to help folks considering making the move find employment in the state, a HOUSING BOARD to help them find accommodations, AND the FSP “Welcome Wagon” of fellow porcupines helps new movers unload when they arrive. You supply the pizza and beer!

The Free Staters, known as “porcupines,” have been incredibly successful in keeping the torch of Liberty alive in New Hampshire. The state has retained its low-tax status as the only North-Eastern state with no income and no sales tax. Forty-five free staters have been elected to the house of representatives, but the actual number may be higher as some porcupines run as Republicans and Democrats in a kind of reverse-Fabian socialism (Sheepdogs in Wolves-Clothing). Furthermore, the free-staters in the legislature have formed strong political alliances with both sides of the house, and there is a solid voting block of over 100 representatives that consistently vote pro-freedom on almost every issue.

The Free Stater’s successes in New Hampshire transcend party politics. The members have built political and social networks needed for widespread societal change. On the political side, the NEW HAMPSHIRE LIBERTY ALLIANCE rates EVERY PIECE OF LEGISLATION COMING BEFORE THE HOUSE AND SENATE ON WHETHER IT IS PRO-FREEDOM OR ANTI-FREEDOM and assigns a REPORT CARD SCORE

OF A-F TO EVERY LEGISLATOR ON THEIR VOTING RECORD. REBUILD NEW HAMPSHIRE organizes activists and amplifies communications. The CHILDREN’S SCHOLARSHIP FUND successfully lobbied the legislature to allow NH businesses to redirect a portion of their business proceeds tax to an Educational Tax Credit that has awarded scholarships totaling over $9,000,000, allowing students to attend schools that best meet their needs. On the social side, FSP members have created multiple community centers across the state that serve as homeschooling cooperatives, agorist marketplaces, co-working spaces, and community clubhouses. These include THE QUILL in Manchester, the PRAXEUM in Portsmouth, the SHELL in Rollinsford, and the WEAREHOUSE in Weare. Freestaters hold more than 550+ meetups, conferences, happy hours, game nights, singles events, hiking clubs, and full-fledged festivals in every corner of the state. You can see the complete calendar at HTTPS://WWW.FSP.ORG/CALENDAR/

WHAT IS PORCFEST AND THE FSP
HTTPS://WWW.YOUTUBE.COM/WATCH?V=PA4AEQLPXPO

The PORCUPINE FREEDOM FESTIVAL is the FSP’s annual camping festival that takes over the largest campground in the state for a full week each June. The event draws 2500+ attendees from around the world and features world-class speakers, parties, workshops, vendors, and activism in a family-friendly setting.

A Libertarian and Voluntaryist Redoubt
The symbolism of the porcupine is simple. The porcupine only wants to be left alone. He has quills, but they are only for self-defense. While the majority of FSP members support a limited government that only protects life, liberty and property, a significant number of members are voluntaryists who don’t believe in the legitimacy, necessity or desirability of government at all. There is a running joke within the FSP: what is the difference between a libertarian and a voluntaryist in New Hampshire? Answer: About Six Months! I break down in my book the unethically manipulative techniques that the U.S. “government” has used to indoctrinate the pseudo-religion of statism into the shave-headed cult members that wear the uni-form (single form, conformity) and enforce on their fellow tax slaves. I firmly believe that no libertarians or voluntaryists are safe until we have a redoubt where the shave-headed enforcers have no power because they are either:

1. Mocked relentlessly from all sides by a population that understands the scam of “government” and the unethically manipulative techniques used to create non-thinking, immoral gunmen. OR
2. They are outnumbered and outgunned by a peaceful but well-armed population who simply aren’t going to be robbed by “government” anymore. New Hampshire is the place on the planet where these dynamics are slowly and surely taking place.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN GOV’T THUGS THREATEN PORCFEST

“Government” Tax Collectors try to collect the “meals tax” from food vendors at Porcfest and are surrounded, mocked, and driven off, never to return!

Because New Hampshire now has one of the largest concentrations of voluntaryists in the world, the indoctrinated pseudo-religion of “statism” and belief in “government” not only doesn’t fly in New Hampshire but the concentration of pro-freedom activists is approaching the point where they outnumber the bureaucrats and gunmen. Some examples: IN 2015 AGENTS FROM THE NH DEPT. OF REVENUE SHOWED UP AT PORCFEST AND ATTEMPTED TO COLLECT THE “MEALS TAX” FROM FOOD VENDORS. THEY WERE SURROUNDED, MOCKED, DRIVEN-OFF AND THE “DEPT OF REVENUE” HAS NEVER ATTEMPTED TO ROB MERCHANTS AT PORCFEST AGAIN. I have heard stories of porcupines who were pulled over by the cops and used the now defunct group calling app Porc411 that sends a call blast to everyone subscribed. The police officer (and other responding officers and state police) were surrounded and outnumbered by porcupines who made fun of them, laughed at their “uni-forms” and mocked them relentlessly. FINALLY, IN KEENE PRO-LEGALIZATION CANNABIS ACTIVISTS STORMED THE KEENE POLICE DEPARTMENT AFTER ONE OF THEIR MEMBERS WAS ARRESTED AT A PRO-LEGALIZATION “SMOKE-IN” AT THE TOWN SQUARE. THE

ACTIVISTS FORCED THE RELEASE OF ARRESTED MEMBER AND THEN LIT UP AND SMOKED UP THE POLICE STATION!

FREE STATE PROJECT NH GUN CHURCH:
HTTPS://WWW.YOUTUBE.COM/WATCH?V=7PBRFDMDQUg

New Hampshire has the lowest murder rate in the nation, despite “lax” gun laws. The lowest murder rate in the nation doesn’t equate to lightly armed. It equates to being massively armed. My favorite Free State Project gun club is called “GUN CHURCH” (Cause it is on Sunday and for people who like to shoot religiously). Run by a former Green Beret with assistance from Ex-Navy SEALS, Rangers and other ex-military, THE GROUP TEACHES MODERN GUN FIGHTING TECHNIQUES FOR COMMUNITY PROTECTION. It is getting to the point when the shave-headed cult members of the “government” come out to try to enforce on their neighbors that they are going to find themselves outnumbered and out-gunned!

Finally, the Free State Project is capable and, I believe, destined for exponential growth. New Hampshire is rapidly approaching the point where the HUNDREDTH MONKEY EFFECT happens, and the majority of the population comes to the understanding that “government” is illegitimate and has been robbing and tax-farming them for ½ their income.

Once freed from the scam and control system of “Government,” New Hampshire can serve as both an example and “laboratory-of-liberty” for other secession movements. If you want to free California, China, Israel or the UK, free New Hampshire 1st.

PREPPING FOR THE FUTURE

One of the variables to a sustained effort in alternative community building is in being prepared for any and all circumstances. In future Issues we will dive deep into this topic because it is fundamentally important. For now, we want to discuss why the need exists.

In a review of history as far back as we can see, the most successful societies were those that covered all their bases. Different types of social norms need to exist to accommodate for long term success. For the purpose of the topic of prepping, these include having a warrior class or culture, having a functional end-to-end supply chain for food and medicine, having the means to manufacture whatever is needed and having a well-defined social hierarchy of needs. The preparation for circumstances beyond our current situation is necessary. In times of peace, prepare for war. This can be applied to anything. In times of abundant crop, prepare for drought. In times of social peace, prepare for chaos. In times of technological advancement, prepare for a future when technologies and comforts we have now are non-existent or dysfunctional.

Our short lives are consumed today with consumerism and egoistic self-centered goals. We seek rewards from the government and multinational corporations and have lost our sense of self-direction and self-sufficiency. These are things any alternative community effort must pay close attention to, and avoid at all cost. We must learn to be capable of managing affairs for ourselves and our communities without any support from outside agencies. By doing so we ensure our future while maintaining a secure position while the support is available.

We must look to education as our first step to becoming self-sufficient, seeking out the right teachers and information to make us competent. We simultaneously take action to build a life of self-sufficiency. Don't stop at YouTube University and think you have covered your bases. Learn from the tools available then implement the things you have learned into your life.

What is most disconcerting is the seeming lack of cooperation people are willing to undertake to accomplish goals that everyone wants. Community is built upon people collaborating for the good of the entire community. On the level of a small alternative community, the nature of the society must in some ways be communistic. Everyone must use their skills to provide something to the community that is needed by all. Tribal living requires each person to fulfill a role that supports the function of the group. On larger scale, societies can evolve from this into a true voluntarism because we start seeing the ability to transact goods and mediums of exchange. The more abundant the society, the more individuals may secure for themselves profit. A small group struggling to survive vs. a large interwoven mesh of communities that trade, whose people migrate between settlements, and who have overcome struggling for basic survival needs. Instead of planning for small communities then, we ought to plan for the greater goal of collaborative communities that can support one another.

As Ernest Hancock said in his article, there are various areas of importance for anyone who homesteads, and this same principle applies to communities of any size. The greater the population, the more dynamic the society and structure.

In preparation for what may come, we should start building our supplies, our circles, and our plans. Supplies include a year's food supply per person, water and filtration, ammunition and firearms, medicine, alternative means of transportation, tools, and seeds. With these basics covered, the community building can come at far less cost.

The people that you prep with can include family, friends, entire neighborhoods, and anyone else who you believe you could work with to build a community and to weather any storm that may come. In the media we are told to be afraid of others, which has driven our population in the United States of America to be one of the most fearful in the world. Our comforts have made us docile, and our media has made us terrified. The truth is that most people can work together when they relax and learn to accept the petty differences they find with others. Yes, be careful of your network, but also be aware that more people are reasonable than not, and when push comes to shove, most will be happy to find something that works rather than to find ways in which to make it fail.

You can order long-term storage food from numerous suppliers that can sit for 20+ years without spoilage. My favorite is NuManna (www.NuManna.com) where you can get everything from seeds to powdered milk, to boxes that can feed a family for months or more. There are many other options out there, but NuManna has organic options, so you can cover your health and long-term storage in one action.

Another option is to order bulk products like beans, lentils, flour, etc. and do the vacuum storage process yourself. This is the cheapest option by far, and is easy after a very short learning curve. Start buying a 25 lb. bag of beans each month (~$40), and by one year, you can have enough beans to last years. There are innumerable bulk suppliers, probably local to you now, that can supply organic bulk options at very reasonable prices. Start now, and soon you will not be worrying about unstocked shelves.

On top of these methods for long term food supply, is raising animals. Heifers and hens, goats and sheep, duck, deer, the list is long. Start raising and find yourself in a very secure position for food in the long term.

Firearms are not in short supply in the U.S. of A. and you need to be one of the many millions who are stocking and storing the right FIREARMS AND WITH RIGHT AMMUNITION. Get the most abundant ammunition and find firearms that use that ammunition, so you will never run out. Even if you never pick up that firearm, which I don't suggest, you will know that it is there and that is a security in itself. I highly suggest you practice once a week or at least once a month with your firearms for safety and proficiency.

Medicine is a high priority for stocking. Everything from EpiPens to bandages and dental and surgery tools. Learning how to use plants to concoct medicines is better than any pharmaceutical products, but as a last resort, it is important to stock the basics anyway. Most basic medicine is cheap and easily accessible. Do your research and find out what you need and where to get it. Then stock up. Blood clotting bandages and powder, pain medication, needles and bags, and so much more are part of the basic prepping list.

Alternative means of travel can be anything that moves that doesn't rely on the infrastructure alone. The most obvious example is horses, but this can also mean looking into alternative fuels for vehicles. If the electrical grid fails, neither electric cars nor gasoline will be available. There are other options, and it's a good idea to start looking into what works best now.

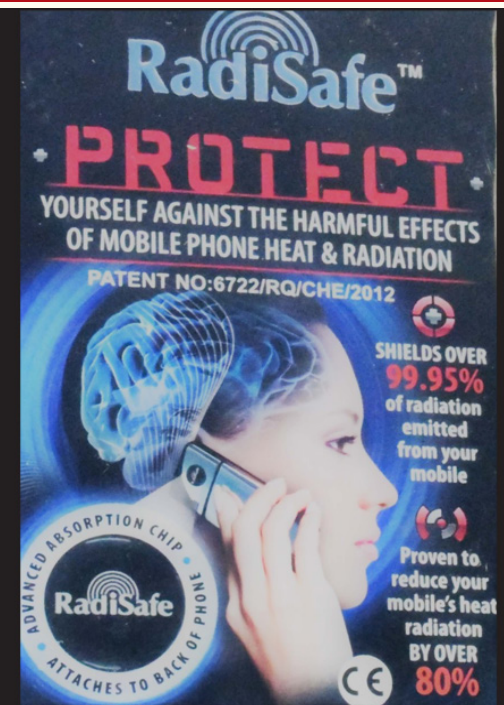

Stocking tools, especially the right tools, is one of the most important aspects of prepping. Without the right tools, you can find yourself trying to build a community with the most primitive creations. Look to 19th century tools. Hand drills and saws, clamps, hammers, forging tools heat powered equipment, and others. If the electrical grid stays up perpetually, there is innumerable tools that make life easier. If it goes down, a saw mill or cement mixing operation becomes a different operation all together. So prepare for the worst, and you will be content with whatever comes. There is no limit to the creative capacity of humanity.

Ensure to prepare for filtering water from the environment, catching rain, and creating water recycling processes. Water is second only to air in the hierarchy of needs for human life. Without prepping for water, you have nothing. So learn to filter water primitively and with technologies of all stages and you will be well prepared.

Finally, purchase all the seeds you will ever need today. Do this, store the seeds correctly, and when the time comes you will have an endless supply of crops to feed yourself and your community. Purchase or collect organic heirloom seeds for the greatest benefit and avoid entirely Monsanto/Bayer seeds that are garbage.

Now imagine that you and 20 or 200 others were doing this prepping work collectively and you can start to see how successful a community might be in any circumstance. The world is an everchanging place, and being prepared means that not only you, but your community, and your progeny may be more successful. Find your crew, purchase some land, make social agreements, grow food and medicine, built alternative energy systems, raise animals, manufacture what you need, trade with other communities what you don't have, share your knowledge with others, and know that you are not alone.

Prepping, like conspiracy theorizing, has been demonized by the government and globalists. These wannabe world rulers are fearful of anything that goes against their agenda. That includes people who critically examine their corruption and share it with the world, and those that remove themselves from the grid and build alternative societies. Prepping is something that has been done by the majority of the world for as far back in history as can be seen. It is the most basic and naturally thing we can do. To prepare a situation for our children that gives them the best chance at not only survival, but also thriving. We look to our future, and it is in the eyes of our youth. Give them the best chance by organizing with others who see the dysfunction of the globalist regime and turning away from slavery and destitution toward self-crafted abundance, responsibility, dignity, and self-respect. The world is changing every day, it is up to us to change it in the right direction. We can do this together, or not at all. Opt-Out, Organize, Prepare, and Build! We will see each other on the other side.

Man-made Microwave Radiation is the most pervasive, invasive, and dangerous disease-causing agent in the world today. RadiSafe has been tested and proven to reduce by 99.95% the amount of radiation being absorbed into the body. In the U.S. these tests were done at CIEMS in California. MOVIES WORTH WATCHING

La Belle Verte

Idyllic. Enlightened. The future or the past?

A magnificent portrayal the spirit of a complete mankind. Many futurists imagine a world of tranquility in which we unite with beneficial technological advancements to make life ever more easeful. I am not talking about technocrats, but more akin to the Jacque Fresco's of the world. This glitch in the matrix film shows a present that is truly enlightened, though location does matter.

Instead of someone from our time and space going to another more enlightened time and experiencing it from the perspective of a present day human, as is depicted often enough, we see the opposite, where people from an enlightened space come to us and we watch them experience the deprivations of the world of billions of tax slaves, iatrogenic genocide, egoistic social norms, war, turmoil, suffering, and hate, all the while watching how normal it all appears to those who are immersed in it.

In their hesitancy to go to Earth after 200 years of no contact, our enlightened "aliens" discuss what they know of Earthlings. One of my favorite lines is...

"The Earth is Huge. The continents drifted apart. Different kinds of humans evolved in different places when they met, the degenerate ones thought they were the best. They massacred lots of people and now they rule."

One of our alien friends decides to travel to Earth to rediscover some common heritage, and as she travels through Paris, France in the late 20th century, she has many hilarious encounters, often due to fact that everyone who comes into contact with her is "disconnected"/shocked into a more advanced state of being by her presence. She also realizes the environment on Earth has been poisoned in a thousand different ways and she must figure out a way to survive without eating the food and drinking the water.

She gets into many conversations that show the ridiculousness of many norms of society. We also see that there is hope for humanity in the black sheep, and we see that Earth has enlightened beings of its own. The ultimate moment in the movie is a discussion that occurs regarding how a boycott of all the causes of harm to people and the planet would produce a similar idyllic planet to that which our friend comes from. This message needs to be heard, because it is truly the key to change. We must stop giving our energy to those that create detrimental results for our planet. A simple example is governments. WE MUST STOP PAYING TAXES! It is the first step.

The planet that our friend came from is the world I dream of for tomorrow. Small population (not by genocide), non-violent to its root, advanced in self-knowledge and wisdom, and living in perfect harmony with the environment. It's people practice their passions and derive pleasure from those things that are both simple and real, even if not easy. Instead of focusing on external technology, they focus on internal technology. That is, the technology of mind and our innate design.

I imagine a community of today that builds toward this idyllic world of tomorrow.

Every scene in this movie is my favorite scene. If ever there was a perfect movie, this is it. All Thanks to Coline Serreau for Directing, Writing, Composing the music for, and Starring this film.

MUSIC WORTH LISTENING

RHYMEWAVE

Rhymewave
noun \ rīm wāv \

A sudden increase in the amount of rhymes committed in an area.

"Rhymewave is an alchemical activist bridging gaps between countercultures and the alternate dimensions. Deeply rooted in the underground, Rhymewave blends supernatural rhymes wrapped with humor and paradox, exploring radical ideas and pondering paranormal possibilities. He helps us remember that shadow work can be fun, and party music ought to be weird. Rhymewave's complex and layered vocabulary is an invitation to uncover the great mystery and choose your own adventure. Rhymewave is transcending the constructs of what it means to be an Emcee in 2023."

I make truth & freedom oriented Hip-Hop music. I'm planting seeds of inspiration, hacking the algorithms, and subverting censorship through sound. I'm also creating decentralized networks that run parallel to the mainstream music industry, providing artists an opportunity to thrive outside of the system. My mission is to unify the collective and collaborate in extraordinary ways. I have been writing rhymes for 20 years and I make all of my own beats. My production style is spacy, futuristic, and heavily influenced by psychedelic trip-hop sounds. My lyrics attempt to red pill the masses in an entertaining way. My biggest influences are Eyedea, Aesop Rock, and Emancipator.

I got sucked pretty deep down an assortment of rabbit holes back in 2012, but never really figured out a proper way to infuse the new knowledge into my lyrics. Around 2018 I moved to Portland, OR and starting playing a bunch of shows. When the scamdemic hit in 2020, I knew that I needed to use my platform to remind people of their inherent power and be a ruthless advocate of liberty. There has never been a more important time to be of service. It is an honor to create and perform these songs.

"To each his own, I feed on bones, and meter up the peace and hope
Scheming up a leader born in scenery that's free to grow
Beaming up a needed zone, defeating we need to cheat to know
With reasoning and meaning I'll be seeping with adrenochrome
Sleeping with the dreams of coded alchemy and gnosis
Reading up and seeing all the casualties of show biz
Grieving for the ones we lost to fallacies on COVID
My reasoning is rounded but my better half's gone bogus"
- 'Awaken Today' from the album 'Crop Circles & Cathedrals'

Check out my brand new album, now streaming everywhere! 'Kin of Merlin' will be releasing our debut album next month. Big thanks to Liberty Uncensored for featuring our music and helping us spread the word.

Have you heard of the [N]VICP?

By Kenny Palurintano

You may have heard one of the more common COVID-19 talking points being that Pharmaceutical companies had been released from any liability for their upcoming mRNA “vaccines.”

The issue here is that people were being told this narrative of how this was new with COVID, some special rule... but in reality the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986 was passed specifically to remove any financial liability against those companies. That’s right, 34 years before 2020. People just hadn’t been paying attention.

“The National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program is a no-fault alternative to the traditional legal system for resolving vaccine injury petitions. [...] It was created in the 1980s, after lawsuits against vaccine companies and health care providers threatened to cause vaccine shortages and reduce U.S. vaccination rates[...]” (HTTPS://WWW.HRSA.GOV/VACCINE-COMPENSATION)

As you can see, According to the National Vaccine Information Center (HTTPS://WWW.NVIC.ORG/RESOURCES/FREQUENTLY-ASKED-QUESTIONS/VACCINE-INJURY-COMPENSATION), any liability that the pharmaceutical companies held for their vaccines was fully eliminated by the Supreme Court in 2011:

“While the federal law governing vaccine injury compensation preserved a legal avenue for consumers to sue vaccine manufacturers, in a 2011 split decision in Bruesewitz v. Wyeth by the U.S. Supreme Court (HTTPS://WWW.NVIC.ORG/INJURY-COMPENSATION/NVIC-POSITION-ON-1986-CHILDHOOD-VACCINE-INJURY-ACT.ASPX) blocked the legal right of vaccine injured persons to hold vaccine manufacturers liable for design defect and failing to improve an FDA licensed vaccine to make it less harmful.”

Despite the fact that these dangers in vaccines have obviously been long known, and so much energy spent to protect the mega-corporations, is it any surprise that TV, radio, and billboards are constantly parroting the message that vaccines are “safe and effective,” while the actual government data tells a very different story. According to the update released on February 1, 2023, the NVIC has paid out $4,966,561,110.65 to people & families who have been found to be vaccine-injured, by a court with the sole purpose of limiting how many cases succeed. (HTTPS://WWW.HRSA.GOV/SITES/DEFAULT/FILES/HRSA/VICP/VICP-STATS-02-01-23.PDF)

They break down in that document how many people file claims, how many are approved, and the amount paid out, all the way back to 1989. You’ll notice that more than half of all the claims entered into the program have been dismissed. What you may not know, if you’ve never looked into the VAERS program, is that the damages done by vaccines are known to be wildly UNDER-reported. (HTTPS://WWW.OPENVAERS.COM/FAQ/WHAT-IS-UNDERREPORTING-AND-WHY-IT-MATTERS)

It’s quite possible that the headlines about this new absolving of Big Pharma was actually just because the mRNA injections are not, by any definition before 2021, vaccines. They do not contain a weakened, attenuated, or dead virus. They contain lipid particles with messenger-RNA inside of them, designed to program human cells into producing the dangerous spike proteins that COVID-19 is so well known for.

Whatever the reason, it’s important that people now realize that, like so many “responses” rolled out for the plandemic, there was nothing new about vaccines being a risk-free product. For big pharma, that is.

Liberty Uncensored Makes Videos

Did you know that Liberty Uncensored also creates video content?

We do podcast appearances, as well as interviews with freedom fighters of all sorts. Some are in person at events like The Greater Reset, and some are done digitally, but they’re all available on a platform called ODYSSEE, which is built on the LBRY BLOCKCHAIN.

Odysee.com is looking to replace YouTube (among others), with its decentralized, censorship-resistant content network. The network has been around for many years now, and has millions of active users, as well as being one of the main hubs for alternative & independent media sources, who have been forced from mainstream platforms over the past 5 years.

The LBRY network functions similarly to IPFS (inter-planetary file system) or BTFS (bittorrent file system) for storing content in a decentralized way, and everyone with an account can choose to download & host any content they want. That’s right, suddenly each of us can be the hosting network for the channels we support, taking that power back from mega-corporations like Youtube, Google, Meta, etc.

All different kinds of content can be shared to the LBRY chain, including videos, photos, audio, text posts, PDFs, and so on. Video creators get paid per view in LBC (the cryptocurrency of the network), and everyone can earn coins via the assorted gamification options, like earning every time you update the app, earning for watching videos at least 3 days a week, earning for everyone who signs up via your referral link, and so on.
